The aim of Jardin des Voix, a prestigious academy set up by the great conductor William Christie, is to reveal the talent of unknown young singers thanks to a tour of the world's major concert halls.

In 2007, ten young people, between 21 and 29 years of age, were able to enjoy this unique experience alongside the master of baroque music. They had been chosen among over 200 candidates from all over the world.

This film portrays this exceptional adventure from the selection process to the tour.
